

Two important developments occurred on the industrial front yesterday: The government returned the railroads to their owners after a patched-up peace between labor and management; and Cyrus Chinn, head of the Federal Mediation Service, announced settlement of the Western Union telegraph strike.

In view of past and present experience I don't believe either the railroad men or the telegraphers have any more faith in government channels than management does. Western Union's history is a grim warning.

It is true that the telegraph company, like railroad management, for many years leaned heavily on what it thought was a perpetual monopoly. Western Union clung to outmoded methods. For instance, this country newspaper installed the perforated-tape system of automatic wire transmission known as Teletypewriter back in June, 1942, nearly 10 years ago. Big Western Union did not get around to using the perforated tape system until after World War II — by which time its service had slowed down so, and the telephone had taken so much of the business, that Big Telegraph was losing millions of dollars a year.

Nevertheless, it was disclosed during the negotiations over the strike that Western Union's transmission of government messages has been virtually eliminated in recent years by the intrusion of the federal people into the telegraph business themselves. The company reported that the government first set up telegraph facilities as a war emergency measure, to be only "temporary" — but once in the business the government refused to get out, and has been expanding its telegraph system ever since.

So the government itself has had a hand in reducing Western Union's capital assets through continuing operating losses, and in wiping out private employment as the business steadily shrank.

I suggest the obvious: We aren't getting anywhere under a government policy which steals private profits and private jobs — and then has the gall to offer a government mediator to preside over the wreckage.

The mediator came up with a temporary expedient to settle the current strike, but one that hardly guarantees the future of Western Union profits or the security of its employees. The men will get a wage hike, providing the company gets a rate increase — but all the evidence points to the fact that Western Union's business was diving, and employment decreasing, under the rate hikes previously posted.

A nearly identical threat confronts the railroads and their employees, the private rail transport system having to meet today's government subsidized competition in the air and the even more deadly competition of freight truckers operating over roadbeds for whose maintenance they pay almost nothing.

Certainly these are days when both management and labor need to present a common front against a political intrusion which breaks down profits and jobs, on the one hand, and raises taxes on the other.

Modernization of equipment and close co-operation within the companies will solve the problems of both the railroads and the telegraphers — but politics won't. Speaking of the railroads —

For years the Missouri Pacific dumped its Hope passengers at the St. Louis terminal and let them lug their own suitcases half a mile down the platform to get aboard the Pennsylvania or Baltimore & Ohio for the East. Today you have "through cars" which eliminate that tedious transfer in St. Louis. But the delay in getting around to reforms like this all over the country hurt the railroads both in business and prestige. And every railroad man in America knows this is true.

High Winds Rip State, Gurdon Mill Damaged

By The Associated Press

Arkansas' unpredictable spring weather whipped the state with winds up to 80-miles-per-hour and heavy rains Friday, stirring fears until late Friday night that another tornado was in the making.

The high winds concentrated their fury in the southwestern and western sections of the state, hitting Ashdown, DeQueen, Dierks, Horatio, Arkadelphia, Magnolia, Texarkana and Gurdon.

There was only one injury reported. An unidentified Negro worker suffered a broken arm when the wind de-roofed and knocked down a wall of the Southwest Unit Structures, Inc., plant in Magnolia.

There was no immediate estimate of overall damage. DeQueen apparently bore the brunt of the high winds, and first reports said a tornado had hit the city. However, this report later was found to be false.

Another reported twister also was unconfirmed. A small tornado was said to have hit the Athens Community in Howard County. No one was injured, the report said.

Tornado warnings were out for Eastern Arkansas until as late as 10 p.m., when the Weather Bureau in Memphis sounded an all-clear for the entire Midwest.

Rain fell throughout the state, with the heaviest fall of 3.46 inches recorded in Fayetteville. Little Rock had 1.57; El Dorado 1.82; Pine Bluff 1.08, and Texarkana .49 all in a 12-hour period.

A severe wind storm hit Blaine at noon, unroofing the Gurdon Lumber Company's sawmill and destroying the firm's distribution shed. Horace Cabe, president of the company, estimated damage at $5,000.

Power service was disrupted and trees blown down on the Missouri Pacific right-of-way in the Gurdon area, but traffic was not halted.

At Arkadelphia, Ouachita College's "courting tree" was uprooted. The large red oak had been a favorite spot for Ouachita couples for years.

Lightning struck a recreation building at a girls' camp near Rogers, starting a fire which caused several hundred dollars worth of damage.

The storm limited itself to moderately strong winds and a heavy rain in Little Rock.

Anti-Ridgway Reds Riot in Paris

Paris, May 24 (AP) — Five police were injured and 186 persons arrested last night in violent outbursts staged by Communists apparently as an opener to their threatened series of anti-Ridgway demonstrations.

The Reds are trying to drum up a show against Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, who arrives next week to succeed Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as Atlantic Pact commander.

The most serious disturbance was stirred up at the Liazare railway station during the evening rush hour. Gangs of about 20 demonstrators shouted "Ridgway assassin" and "Ridgway go home". Police charged with clubs and carried several bleeding, screaming demonstrators away.

About 2,000 persons massed unopposed in a square of the strongly Communist Boulogne District. They listened to speakers harangue against Ridgway and stoned an American-made automobile, breaking its windows.

Bell Workers Walk Out in Little Rock

Little Rock, May 24 (AP) — A Southwest Bell Telephone Company spokesman says 465 employees have been affected by the surprise walkout of CIO workers at the company's exchange here.

The walkout was called yesterday afternoon, reportedly in connection with a dispute over seniority. Supervisors were called in to take over the long distance switchboards vacated by operators.

Paul P. Cheatham, the company's Little Rock traffic manager, said no advance notice of the walkout was given, although a Communications Workers of America Grievance Committee had conducted negotiations with the company on the dispute yesterday morning.

Cheatham said the dispute involved a woman employee who was transferred from the toll office to another department. He said when she was returned to the long distance branch and her 20-year seniority restored, the union objected. Union officials have not been available for comment.

Objections of France Delay German Pact

Bonn, Germany, May 24 (AP) — Last minute French objections snagged three-power talks here today on completion of the Allied-West German Peace contract.

A conference of Big Three foreign ministers was held up an hour while France's Robert Schuman received last-minute instructions from Paris by telephone. He was reported to have received the French cabinet's views on the phasing of the proposed British-American guarantee against West Germany breaking out of the six-nation European Defense Community (EDC), a linkup closely allied with the peace contract.

Allied sources here said the French were insisting this guarantee be strengthened before they will consent to sign the peace contract with West Germany — tentatively scheduled Monday.

When the delayed conference had been in session only an hour Schuman had to leave Britain's Anthony Eden and America's Dean Acheson again to talk to Paris by telephone. This served to delay a meeting planned for this afternoon by the Big Three ministers and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

Paris, May 24 (AP) — The French Cabinet instructed Foreign Minister Robert Schuman today to refuse to sign the West German peace contract and the European army treaty unless certain French conditions are met. The conditions were not outlined but unofficial reports here and in Bonn said French demands included:

1. Strengthened guarantees against West Germany pulling out of the six-nation European Defense Community.

2. A revision of the proposed financial settlement in the peace contract. This settlement divides up the Germans 10 billion mark $2,427,000,000 annual contribution between her own rearmament needs and the support of western division in Germany.

3. A promise that France's special problems outside Europe — such as the costly fight in Indochina — be given immediate consideration by Britain and the United States.

A brief communique said an explanation of the situation had been given by Maurice Schumann, secretary of state in the foreign ministry headed by Robert Schuman, regarding the treaty and the Bonn accord.

"Afterwards, the Cabinet outlined the conditions under which the government will attach the French signature and present the instruments to Parliament for ratification."

The decision of the Cabinet was taken at a meeting that began last night and ran into early morning. Another cabinet meeting is scheduled for this afternoon.

A Town Can Successfully Fight Back Even If It Does Lose Its Largest Industrial Payroll

By Hal Boyle

Auburn, N. Y., May 24 (AP) — Some American communities, on losing their chief industry, dwindle until they become little more than ghost towns.

Auburn is an example of a town that faced this problem and fought back.

As a result of inspired action by its citizenry, this central New York farm trading and manufacturing center of 36,500 population today faces a more prosperous future than ever.

In more than 150 years Auburn had grown from a pioneer village to a well-balanced, pleasant community with some 28 varied industries. It also is the site of a state prison, where in the 1820s the first cell blocks were built that later became the pattern of American prison architecture.

Disaster threatened the town when its leading industry, the International Harvester Company, decided to pull out. That meant the loss of 1,500 jobs and a $5,000,000 annual blow.

The firm gave 18-months' notice of its intentions. Every civic attempt to save it proved futile. In 1950 International Harvester shut down its plant here, and as a feature of good will sold its buildings for $1 to a group of citizens who organized an industrial development committee.

Local leaders raised $50,000 to finance the committee's effort to lure new industries. At first some businessmen held back, saying, "Why should we help get new firms here that will compete with us for the labor supply?" But they soon decided they didn't want to be part of a dying community. They pitched in, too.

"There wasn't anybody to sell our community except ourselves," recalled Frank S. Smith, utilities executive who headed the committee. "We couldn't afford just to sit back and wait for the right guy to come along."

"And one of our handicaps was that we were known as 'that place where the prison is.'"

Smith will never forget his first inspection tour of the vacated plant facilities, which had become run down.

"I know of nothing more forlorn than an abandoned plant," he said. "In the damp and cold of 600,000 square feet of rambling buildings, in the half dark of the silent old structures, sooted with the smoke of the large and foundry, worn with the transport of goods across the floors, crumbling here and there with the ravages of time and use, we plodded our way."

"I wondered whether we had made an ill-advised bargain at one dollar. I wondered whether the place was doomed to remain a ghost town."

pipes, the dripping roof, the wind-blasted corners and crannies could be given again to industry in return for jobs and a payroll."

But the committee swung into action. Sparkplugged by Smith and Karl A. Adams, head of the Chamber of Commerce here, it contacted scores of outside manufacturers, hundreds of industrial reality dealers.

Resolutely the committee avoided the temptation of selling space to fly-by-night small concerns that paid small wages; stubbornly fought to get the kind of firms it wanted.

The expansion drive has paid. General Electric has built a new plant here. A laundry machinery firm took over much of the old, abandoned plant and spent millions to renovate it. Three other industries have located here. Railroad freight traffic is higher than ever.

In a recent victory dinner Smith announced that the new firms were hiring 1,300 workers, more than replacing the lost 1,500 jobs, and that they had a potential of 3,000 jobs and an annual payroll of $12,000,000 to $14,000,000.

When the development committee attempted to return $10,000 remaining from the $50,000 expansion fund, most contributors said, "Keep the money and continue your work."

Smith gave this summary of Auburn's successful fight against economic disaster:

"It took a major jolt to rouse our community out of a false sense of security. It brought the people together as nothing else could."

Trumanites Would Redeem Aid Bill Slice

Washington, May 24 (AP) — Administration leaders opened an attack today to restore some of $1,737,490,000 the House cut out of President Truman's foreign aid program for next year. The evidence bore was that the Senate would go easier with the pruning knife.

Overtones of the presidential campaign were obvious as the House chopped the big aid bill from the $7,900,000,000 Truman asked to $6,162,500,000 before approving it last night. The roll call vote on passage was 245 to 110.

Two floor cuts, sponsored by backers of Sen. Taft (R-Ohio), lopped 728 1-2 million dollars from economic aid for Europe and Far East. The House also approved slashes of $1,010,000,000 in European economic and military assistance.

Prison Rebels Knuckle Under Tough Policy

Koje Island, Korea, May 24 (UP) — Rebellious Communist war prisoners began knuckling under today to Brig. Gen. Haydon L. Boatner, tough new commandant of the Kojie Island prison camp.

The Reds hauled down their illegal, taunting flags and propaganda banners in "volence-ridden Compound 78 and eight other compounds, and a prisoner spokesman assured Boatner the captives now were "willing to obey orders."

Although several other compounds still flew the forbidden banners, they too were expected to fall in line.

The Communist backdown came as Army Secretary Frank Pace announced in Washington the breaking to colonels of Boatner's two predecessors as camp commandant for their handling of the mutinous prisoners.

The two demoted were Brig. Gen. Francis T. Dodd, who was kidnapped by the Compound 78 prisoners May 7 and held hostage for four days, and Brig. Gen. Charles F. Colson, who obtained Dodd's release by granting the Reds a series of embarrassing concessions.

Group Wants Real Dope on Koji Incident

Washington, May 24 (AP) — The Senate Armed Services Committee still wants to know more about Red shenanigans on Kojie Island, despite demotion of two brigadier generals and official reprimanding of a third one-star officer.

Sen. Byrd (D-Va.), acting chairman, said the committee would keep its inquiry open until the senators get the Army's full report on the capture of Brig. Gen. Francis T. Dodd by Red prisoners, and Dodd's release negotiated by Brig. Gen. Charles Colson.

The secret report, flown here by special courier from the headquarters of Gen. Mark Clark in Tokyo, is at the Pentagon. Byrd said it had been promised to the committee next week.

Army Secretary Pace and Army Chief of Staff Gen. J. Lawton Collins spent 1 1/2 hours yesterday in secret conference with the committee.

Meanwhile, the Pentagon announced:

1. That both Dodd and Colson had been booted back to their permanent rank of full colonel.

2. Brig. Gen. Paul F. Yount, commander of the Army Base Section of Pusan which supervises Kojie Island, had been officially reprimanded because he concurred in part of Colson's much criticized agreement with the Communists holding Dodd.

He said he did not know whether he would have a fuller statement to make, adding:

"As you know, this thing has been under wraps from the beginning. I have not yet been informed whether I am still under wraps or not."

It was also announced that a parade will be held in downtown Hope at 3 p.m. Thursday with Governor McMath participating.

Hope Man Unhurt in Trying to Avoid Accident

Three persons were injured seriously when their car crashed head on into an oncoming gasoline trailer truck on Highway 87, near Texarkana yesterday.

The injured are all residents of Walnut Ridge, Ark., and identified as Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Thomas and Mrs. Lizzie Banks.

State Trooper Clarence Gibson said Thomas' car apparently went off the highway and when he tried to regain the road the vehicle slipped and skidded into the path of the oncoming truck.

Gibson said the driver of the oncoming truck, A. R. Smith of Hope, was not injured and the vehicle was not damaged.

Plane Losses in Korea at Alarming Stage

X-Ray Unit to Go to Washington on Tuesday

The mobile X-ray unit, operated by the State Board of Health, and brought to Hempstead County by the County Health Office and the County Tuberculosis Association, was located at McCaskill Friday morning, May 23d. Volunteer workers for this clinic were Miss Beulah Lee Honeycutt, Mrs. O. A. Workham, and Mrs. Bert Scott, Jr.

The clinic was held in the afternoon at Blevins. Assisting in the clinic were Mrs. J. V. Hampton, Mrs. Ralph Boyce, Mrs. W. D. Gorham, Mrs. C. F. Goodlett, Mrs. Tollett Taylor, and Mrs. Elvin Campbell.

Next clinic will be at Washington Public School, Tuesday morning, May 27th, from 9 a.m. to 12 noon. The unit will move to Fulton at White's Store, Tuesday afternoon, from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday, May 28, 29, and 31, the unit will be located in Hope.

Although this a free service to each person, it is not charity as state and local taxes pay for it. TB can be wiped out if everyone will have periodic x-rays and the unsuspected cases brought to light. You will be doing yourself and your community a service by availing yourself of this opportunity.

Communist Jets Win Aerial Fight

With U. S. Fifth Air Force, May 24 (AP) — For the first time in the Korean War Communist MIGs this week grabbed a five-to-four victory margin over U. S. planes in aerial combat, the Fifth Air Force disclosed today.

In its summary for the week ended Friday, the Air Force announced the loss of three F86 Sabre jets and two F4 Thunderjets against only four confirmed MIG kills.

In the overall air war, the picture was even darker, with seven additional American planes lost in action.

The final tally gave the Communists 12 kills from all causes, and the Allies only four. It was one of the worst weeks for losses since the war began 23 months ago.

Of the seven other U. S. planes lost, four were shot down by Red anti-aircraft guns, one was destroyed by a bomb blast and two others were lost to unknown causes.

Rainy Weekend Is Predicted

By The Associated Press
It looked like a rainy week-end for wide areas in the eastern half of the country with warm and humid weather in some areas. Generally fair weather prevailed along the East Coast and in the Western states.

Showers and thunderstorms hit most of the Midwest and eastward to the Appalachians. Heavy rains were reported in some areas, with falls measuring more than 10 inches reported in Stephenville, in North Central Texas. Two persons were reported drowned as flood waters of the Bosque River nearly surrounded the town of 5,000.

A small tornado skipped across farm and ranch lands near San Angelo, in West Texas, yesterday but only minor damage was reported.

It was warm and humid over the central part of the country from the Eastern Plains States to the Appalachians and in the southeastern section of the country.

Red Jets Taking Heavy Toll in Air Victories

Seoul, Korea, May 24 (AP) — Allies struck the greatest air blow of the Korean War at the end of Thursday and Friday, against a sobering picture of increased plane losses.

The Fifth Air Force tally showed the work ended Friday was one of the worst — if not the worst — week for the Allies since the started 23 months ago. On the upside, the Air Force said U. S. pilots destroyed 460 buildings, damaged 163 in their continuing two-day attack which paralyzed Red industries near the North Korean capital of Pyongyang.

The weekly plane loss count: the Communists 12 kills and U. S. airmen four.

For the first time in the Communist MIGs grabbed a four-to-one edge in aerial dogfights. The Fifth Air Force announced the loss of three F86 Sabre jets and two F4 Thunderjets in the air against only four confirmed MIG kills.

The other seven U. S. losses, mostly to Red anti-aircraft fire, counted naval plane losses. Six flights indicated the loss total, at least 14. Airmen said it appeared to point to growing Communist skill and power on the air and ground.

Some Unions Would Reject WU Pact

Washington, May 24 (AP) — Union locals reported within a day after a strike settlement was reached between Western Union and A.F. Commercial Telegraphers they want to reject the pact.

Truce Talkers Relax, Hope for Break

Munsan, Korea, May 24 (AP) — The Allied Korean War truce team relaxed at travel, housework and volleyball today — and hoped the Reds would ease their unyielding stand on the prisoner issue when negotiations resume Tuesday.

The U. N. delegation proposed a three-day recess Friday and North Korean Gen. Nam Il, chief Communist delegate, unexpectedly accepted.

"We hope Nam Il is studying his lessons — reviewing the record since April 28," said Brig. Gen. William P. Niekols, official Allied spokesman. "If he analyzes it all, maybe he'll come to realize there is no more room for negotiations."

April 28, the Allies made what they insist is their final proposal on the prisoner question, last roadblock to an armistice. They offered to return 70,000 Red prisoners, the number a U. N. survey showed want to rejoin the Communists. Nam asks return of all 100,000 interned by the Allies.

Only member of the five-man Allied negotiation team to remain in Munsan in the recess was Maj. Gen. William K. Harrison, new senior delegate. And he may visit Seoul briefly as part of his other job as deputy Eighth Army commander.

Other U. S. delegates flew to Tokyo. South Korean Gen. Yu Jai Hwang went to Seoul.

"Tonight at the camp there's a movie with a title out of keeping with the atmosphere of the 10-12 month truce talks — 'The Love Nest'."

By The Associated Press
Republicans in three states name a total of 51 presidential-nominating delegates today, with the battle in each pitched along Taft-Eisenhower lines.

The tussles in Washington, Maryland and Minnesota shaped up this way:

Washington—Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's backers appeared in control of the convention at Spokane, where the state's 24 delegates to the National Convention will be chosen.

They claim they will win as many as 22. The balance of power rests with representatives from Seattle, who constitute nearly one-third of the state convention. The Seattle group is pledged to vote as one for Eisenhower delegates.

Backers of Sen. Robert Taft of Ohio, however, are talking of a possible walkout to protest this pledge. They won an initial victory last night when the convention Rules Committee decided to recommend that delegations cannot vote as a unit. A motion from the Eisenhower side to reverse this ruling is expected today.

Maryland — Theodore McKeldin appeared a clinch to get Maryland's 24 GOP votes as a "favorite son" candidate. But this would only last through the first ballot at the July 7 National Convention in Chicago.

After that, indications point to a split between Taft and Eisenhower. McKeldin himself is not saying publicly what his preferences are. Once widely tabbed an Eisenhower fan, he has been complimentary to Taft of late. Intimates still insist he favors the general.

Minnesota—Three at-large delegates, to fill out Minnesota's 28-vote quota, will be named at the Minneapolis convention. Gov. C. R. River Anderson, and two other Eisenhower supporters, are expected to get the posts.

The big fight in Minneapolis will come over election of a GOP national committee.

Plans were made for the tea to be given at the July meeting.

Mrs. Jesse McCorkle gave a gardening and poultry report. Mrs. Otha Roberts gave a clothing report.

State Hospital to Let Repair Bids

Little Rock, May 24 (AP) — The Arkansas State Hospital will receive bids on contracts totaling $77,000 to repair and replace equipment at its three state units.

The expenditures, authorized by the institution's Board of Control yesterday, will include $29,500 for installation of a milk processing plant and $19,000 to paint five ward buildings at the Benton unit.

Some $15,400 will be spent at the Baumcum Unit, including cost of milk and bottling equipment. About $12,000 will be earmarked for equipment at the Little Rock unit.

Washington, May 23 (AP) — Rep. Harris (D-Ark), chairman of a special House committee named to appraise the moral tone of radio and television programs, said today the group also may find it necessary to look into the movie business.

He pointed out that moving pictures are shown on many TV programs.

Harris, named yesterday to head the committee, acknowledged that his group faces a difficult problem in determining whether broadcast material contains offensive or immoral matter and places too great emphasis on crime and violence.

He disclaimed any idea of attempting to establish any kind of federal censorship.

He said he expects to call the committee together soon to decide on a program. Meanwhile, he said he had been giving thought to the possibility of "wide open" hearings, inviting testimony from the persons who stage the programs, those who pay for and sponsor them and those who watch or listen to them.

Chicago, May 24 (AP) — The American Baptist Convention wants presidential nominees of both major parties to declare early in their campaigns their views on possible appointment of a U. S. envoy to the Vatican.

Delegates at the religious group's annual convention adopted a resolution yesterday reaffirming opposition to any kind of formal diplomatic relations with the headquarters of the Roman Catholic church.

The resolution added that presidential candidates should "be requested, as soon as nominated, to express their policies on this issue."

"The President of the United States," the resolution said, "has not withdrawn his announced intention of making another nomination of an ambassador."

"In this election year the issue of an ambassador to the Vatican is likely to be urged upon the candidates selected by the major political parties."

Another approved resolution stated that cases of suspected subversive action or disloyalty "should be handled according to the principles of due process of law, with the right of counsel and hearing before an unprejudiced body."

It is especially necessary in times of national emergency and unrest for lawmakers and law enforcers, as well as citizens, to refrain from tainting the name of a fellow citizen by assuming him guilty of disloyalty because of association, hearsay, rumor, malignant accusation or any other procedure except those in which the tenets of objective legal evidence apply."

Other adopted resolutions opposed universal military training pledged continued support of the purposes of the United Nations, and urged "our churches to move more rapidly toward the establishment of complete non-segregation among the church and institutions within our fellowship."

Young Girl Held for Kidnapping
Blytheville, May 24 (AP) — A 16-year-old Manila, Ark., girl is being held in Mississippi County jail here in connection with an auto theft and the overnight disappearance of two children.

Deputy Sheriff Leo Baker said that the teenager was charged with grand larceny in the auto theft yesterday.

Presbyterians Change Policy on Divorce

New York, May 24 (AP) — The Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. has thrown out a part of its church law saying its ministers may marry a divorced person only after a year has elapsed since the divorce.

The change, given final approval by the 2-1.2 million member church top governing body, also strikes out a phrase specifying that ministers "may marry the innocent party" to a divorce.

No restrictions concerning remarriage of the "guilty" or "innocent" party is contained in the newly substituted section of the church's "Directory of Worship."

It specifies only that the minister before remarrying a divorced person, "shall ascertain whether there is penitence for past sin and failure, an intention to enter, with the help of God, and through his church, into a lasting marriage of 'love, honor, forbearance and loyalty'."

The action culminated several years of debate over the church's marriage and divorce policies.

Endorsed during the past year by a majority of the church's 259 local Presbyteries, the revision got final approval yesterday by the church's 104th annual General Assembly.

Washington, May 24 (AP) — Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway is confident that measures taken to protect the health of U. N. troops in Korea would make control of germ attack easy if the Reds should launch one.

Speaking to a combined meeting of newswriters' clubs here, the general said yesterday he believed the Communists are capable of using germ warfare. "Your guess is as good as mine," he said when asked if he thought the Reds might do so.

Ridgway said that "unless they had a capability far greater than any of which I am aware" the superior health measures of the U. S. army would make control of germ attack easy.

The general said the Reds have been able to bounce back from Allied air attacks because of the Communists' "almost incredible ability for recuperation" — partly by pressing local populations into use. Ridgway said Asiatic troops require only about 10 per cent of the amount of supplies needed by U. N. forces.

The former U. N. supreme commander in the Far East said Red propagandists are reacting "desperately — furiously — to the growing strength and determination of the free world."

They are pouring out "an almost unbroken stream of lies," Ridgway said.

Ridgway is spending this week here en route to Europe, where he succeeds Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as commander of North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces.

Scientist X Must Answer Spy Charges
Washington, May 24 (AP) — Joseph W. Weinberg, accused as "Scientist X" who slipped atomic secrets to an alleged Red spy, must answer charges June 2 that he lied when he swore he had never been a Communist party member.

The 35-year-old physicist was arrested in Minneapolis late yesterday after a federal grand jury in Washington returned a three-count perjury indictment against him.

Weinberg expressed surprise at the indictment but refused to discuss the charges. He was released on $10,000 bond after appearing before U. S. Commissioner C. O. Lundquist at Minneapolis.

Lundquist ordered him to return Tuesday when bond will be set for his appearance June 2 in Washington's U. S. District Court.

Conviction would carry a maximum penalty of 10 years' imprisonment on each of the three counts for a total of 30 years.

DOROTHY DIX Hardworking Husband

Dear Miss Dix: My physical and mental health are in serious jeopardy unless I can find a solution to my problem I am 25 and have been married for three years to a fine man. Although he was driving a truck when I met him, he is now branch manager of a firm. We both work, and go out a lot, so I have no right to complain, but along with Dan's success, he seems to have lost most of his heart.

Is it necessary for a man to become completely absorbed in his work in order to be successful? I think we have sufficient money to live comfortably without his worrying fretting and living solely for the company. And that's the way it is: he simply lives to please his boss.

The things he does are not compulsory, but any suggestion made is practically an order to him. This has been going on for two years and I'm worrying myself into a breakdown. If I tell my husband of my feelings, he says I'm immature. Perhaps I am, but if immaturity means putting love before business, then I don't want to change. I'll ask if he's dissatisfied with our marriage, and he only laughs at me.

He was very eager to marry me, and I made many personal sacrifices to marry him. He never thinks of these things, either.

Answer: Your difficulty is rooted in a dissatisfaction in your own mind. To help yourself, you must find out what it is, and eradicate it. It may easily be your lack of children, or it may be a nagging resentment over the sacrifices you made to marry Dan. Perhaps you are bored with your own job and actually envy him the interest he has in business.

Suppose He Were Different?
Suppose you consider what your life would be if your husband were entirely different. If he didn't want to work, was lazy and slovenly? Does the picture appeal to you? Of course not! Then don't be so vexed at Dan's overconscientiousness.

You must try to realize just how much a man's work means to him. It is, after all, a life career and one in which he hopes to achieve great things. And who will benefit from the fruits of his labors? You, of course. It's all right to say you think his present earnings sufficient to keep you comfortably, but with a future to provide for, additional income is always welcome.

No man wants to stand still in a job — at least no worthy man. In fact, no one should be content at a stationary point. We all want to progress to something better; condemning this universal urge toward higher and better things to halt civilization. Don't try to buck impulses that are as old as the world.

You see, all adjustments must be made by you in this problem. You certainly aren't a neglected wife if you're taken out frequently. You have no problems over other women, drinking, gambling or any of the evils that drive most of my correspondents to writing. Don't give way to a neurosis. With the help of a good doctor and a firm resolution to put things in a better light, I'm sure you'll come to a sensible outlook.

Dear Miss Dix: Is it possible for a man of 37 to fall in love with a girl of 17? I have never cared too much for girls, but this young lady is very sweet. She assures me the difference in age means nothing when two people are in love.

Answer: It is practically impossible for you to love a girl so much younger than you. The fact, that you have had so little contact with the gentler sex has slightly marred your perspective. You will, I assure you, be much more content with girls nearer your own age. The girl, herself, is temporarily thrilled at the idea of an "older man" taking so much interest in her, but a twenty-year difference is mighty large.

Dear Miss Dix: Can you tell me what my nationality is? My mother is Irish, as all her people were born in Dublin. My father is Scotch and French. Am I right in saying I have Irish blood? My girl friend says my mother's nationality does not count.

Answer: Your girl friend is very wrong. You are a product of all the national strains that made up your background, so you are, Irish-Scotch-French. Since your mother is entirely Irish, and your father's ancestry is mixed, you are more Irish than any other nationality.

Soldiers, Jailed for Robbery, Escape
Ft. Smith, May 24 (AP) — Two soldiers, arrested in connection with a Greenwood, Ark., service station holdup, escaped from a Camp Chaffee work detail near here yesterday.

The Camp Public Information Office identified the prisoners as Pvt. Ralph E. Stillman of Little Rock and Pvt. James W. Baker of Stubbenville, O.

Nelson is now a Red party boss in Western Pennsylvania. During World War II he was a party organizer in Alameda County, Calif., where Weinberg was working in the University of California's Radiation Laboratory for atomic research.

Young Girl Held for Kidnapping
Blytheville, May 24 (AP) — A 16-year-old Manila, Ark., girl is being held in Mississippi County jail here in connection with an auto theft and the overnight disappearance of two children.

Deputy Sheriff Leo Baker said that the teenager was charged with grand larceny in the auto theft yesterday.

He said the girl took the automobile from a farm Wednesday and disappeared with two smaller girls. She led police on an all-night search through Mississippi County.

Baker said the hungry children were found yesterday sitting in the automobile, which was parked on a back road near Lepanto, Ark. The children, 5-year-old Kay Briley and her sister, Joan, 7, are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Tal-madge Briley of near Manila, Ark.

Prosecuting Attorney H. G. Farlow said County Judge Faber White is expected to hear the teenager's case in Juvenile Court next week. He said the girl gave no motive for her actions.

Campanella Paces Brooks to Victory

By RALPH RODEN
AP Sports Writer

The Brooklyn Dodgers got along without Roy Campanella but all hands are glad the husky catcher is back in action even if he isn't exactly ship shape.

"My hand still hurts a little when I catch," Campanella said today, "but I can swing a bat."

That's the understatement of the year. Dutch Hiller of Cincinnati and Karl Drews of Philadelphia can easily testify that the National League's most valuable player of 1951 has lost none of his power due to his enforced absence.

Campanella sat out three games because of a bruised left hand. He returned to action Thursday and rocked Hiller for a three-run homer.

The ace receiver continued his destructive work last night against the Phils. He drove in all of Brooklyn's runs in a 5-1 victory.

UA to Handle Own Football Broadcasts

Fayetteville, May 24 (AP)—Plans for the University of Arkansas to broadcast its 1952 football games over its own state-wide network of radio stations are complete.

Final approval of the program was granted by the University's Athletic Council yesterday.

Under the program submitted by Athletic Director John Barshall and approved by the Southern Conference, all Arkansas radio stations will have an opportunity to broadcast the games.

Other Southwest Conference teams will sell broadcast rights to a single sponsor. But the Arkansas school will sell the broadcasts directly to each radio station, which theory with a pair of home runs.

Campanella clouted the 100th of his career with the bases empty in the second inning and followed up with a game-winning grand slam in the third to insure the Dodgers' seventh straight triumph.

The victory also enabled the Dodgers to protect their half game lead over the runner-up New York Giants. Sal Maglie recorded his eighth victory without a loss for the Giants as he turned back the Boston Braves 5-3.

Maglie staggered a bit in the first three innings and in the ninth but from the fourth to the last frame he allowed only one hit.

The Giants scored all of their runs in the fourth inning against huffy Max Surkont. They collected five of their seven hits in the 4th including a two-run homer by Al Dark.

Maglie permitted eight hits including three in the first three innings and three in the ninth. Ebba St. Claire cracked a two-run homer in the ninth with one out. Rookie Bob Thorpe followed with a single but Maglie got pinch-hitter Earl Torgerson to ground into a game-ending double play.

The Giant ace has beaten every club in the league with the exception of Chicago which he hasn't faced.

Veteran Ken Raffensberger, supported by youngsters Wally Post and Roy McMillan, gained his third victory of the season over St. Louis as Cincinnati shaded the Red Birds, 2-1. Post and McMillan homered off Harry Brocheen to account for Cincinnati's runs.

The last place Pittsburgh Pirates edged the Chicago Cubs 5-5 in 13 innings to snap an eight-game losing streak. Gus Bell and Johnny Merson doubled back to back with one out in the 13th to break up the game. Ted Wilks was the winner and Warren Hacker the loser.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

New York, May 24 (AP)—There is a great deal of poetic justice in the fact that Bucky Harris has been getting such fine pitching from Conrad Marrero and Julio Moreno, his Cuban Perfectos. The manager of the surprising Washington Senators deserves something good from the neighboring island if ever a man did.

It was Bucky who, in a previous hitch at the nation's capital from 1923 through 1942, suffered the brunt of the first major invasion of the big leagues by Cuban players.

In those days, just over a decade ago, the Cubans who could play big league ball were few and far between.

But that did not bother either Clark Griffith, the Senators' venerable president, nor his chief scout, Joe Cambria. Griff did not possess much of a farm system and he seldom bought players for money, so it was natural that he looked with tremendous favor upon Cuban athletes, who came free.

Each spring when Harris opened his training camp at Orlando, Fla., he could count upon finding an acre of Cuban outfielders and infielders and pitchers awaiting him. They couldn't speak English and Bucky couldn't speak Spanish and few of them showed any symptoms of playing baseball even for a last-place club.

Bucky, a fair man, probably is sorry now for some of the things he said in those days. Largely through Griffith's stubborn perseverance and the consequent punishment inflicted upon Harris, Cubans in increasing numbers are making good in the big time and Washington deservedly has several of the best.

And some of the marked improvement in Cuban talent in recent years possibly can be traced to the fact that a considerable number of promising American rookies began playing in the Cuban league back in the winter of 1947-48.

will obtain its own local sponsors.

Other points in the plan include a restriction on sponsors who manufacture alcoholic beverages or makers of gasoline and other oil products. A standard schedule for commercials will limit advertising to four 1-minute commercials and eight 30-second spot announcements per game.

The University will be paid by the radio station according to its national advertising rate. The institution will charge a minimum of $30 per hour for broadcast rights, plus a percentage of the station's national hourly rate.

Rose-Holm Dispute Getting Hotter

New York, May 23 (AP)—The Eleanor Holm-Billy Rose marital dispute is getting hotter—between attorneys for the two.

Miss Holm's attorney, Walter S. Beck, charged yesterday that "criminal efforts have been made to obstruct justice and to influence witnesses in this case."

Rose's lawyer, Arthur Garfield Hays, denied the allegation.

Beck made his statements in asking Supreme Court Justice Kenneth O'Brien to postpone Miss Holm's separation suit from the showman until fall. The judge reserved decision.

The BOOK of the CRIME

by ELIZABETH DALY

CHAPTER ONE

A GIRL and a dog came down the steep brookside steps; the dog in short, frog-like leaps (he was a Boston terrier, large for his breed), the girl tottering on his leash with one hand, to her cap-like neck with the other. It was a dark, cold April day, six o'clock in the afternoon, and she pulled her fur coat around her when they reached the sidewalk.

She would have turned left to Madison, but the dog preferred the long stretch to Fifth—the Austen house was near the Madison Avenue corner. She followed, indifferent. Rena Austen did not care for the dog. He was the only dog in her life that she never liked; his drimled coat always felt like a hindrance to the hand, his hindquarters hung loose on him and wagged disagreeably at a gesture or a word. He was a sycophant and a coward. But she realized that she ought to feel grateful to him, since he was her excuse for getting out of the house and away from human company at this depressing hour. By human company she meant that of the Austens; she seldom saw anybody else.

That narrow house! Squeezed between two others like it, with only a sliver of front showing, but so much of it extending back and back to the limits of the lot. Just a sliver of yard beside the kitchen, and Abby wasn't allowed there. The cook would soon have him out of it with a broom.

Dark narrow rooms, dark stairs, dark corners. A perfect trap for her eyes, but plenty of space for a family of four, and too much, she would have thought, for the old gentleman who had lived there and had willed it to Gray Austen, her husband. But the old gentleman had had a family once, she supposed. Now she and Gray had the second-floor back suite; Gray's brother and sister, Jerome and Hildreth, lived on the first floor, and she and the third floor; the servants were above. Just right for comfort.

What was wrong with them? Abby, as usual, kept her waiting on the Fifth Avenue corner in the chill wind, while she looked at the letter box and thought that she had nobody to write to. The only friend she had had in New York, the only one to whom she could possibly write an intimate letter, was married and abroad. And even if there was anybody to write to, what could she say? It would sound just the kind of thing she had in mind. It would be a nice thing to tell anyone. "My husband

The others of course could fill up their time as Gray couldn't—they got around, picked up friends, went to plays and concerts and exhibitions, travelled; fitted back and forth between New York and Portland to settle the family affairs. They'd just come home from the last trip. But Gray—wouldn't any other normal human being find himself something to do? He didn't suffer at all, he was an intelligent, well-read man. Well, that brought it all back to the original trouble and question—Gray's case. He was simply one of those melancholia cases, she supposed, and his problem wasn't that he couldn't dance or play golf or tennis, lead an active life; it came from the effects of the war itself on him, and his recovery would be difficult and slow. She was there presumably to help him; and all she could think of was getting away.

At first she had wondered whether his first wife's death had been what he couldn't recover from; but after he told her about it, before they were married and indeed almost as soon as they began to talk at all intimately, he had not referred to it again. Nobody talked about the first wife, and why should they, to her? A sad subject—Gray had married her here, very soon after he got discharged and came to New York early in 1916. They were married two years, and then she had died of pneumonia, there in the Austen house. Gray had stood his loneliness for a year, and then he had met Rena in the park.

Two years! The first Mrs. Gray Austen had lasted two years, and the second Mrs. Austen didn't look like lasting for more than one. Had the other girl been so worn-down by boredom and hopelessness and strain that she couldn't put up any resistance to the disease? Such a nice little thing she had sounded like, a hostess in a restaurant. Gray couldn't exactly be accused of fortune-hunting! Pretending with Rena's light coloring, and her isolated life in the world as Rena was.

She and Abby were passing the service alley of an apartment house now, and Abby was waving, interested in garbage cans. She let him stop a minute to run and sniff there in his unattractive servant way, with her eyes out for superintendents and porters; but they never seemed to be around at that hour. Suddenly he glanced over his shoulder, started violently, and disappeared behind a door. She saw Rena almost lost her grip on his hand. A voice said: "Rena!"
